Question 2 (a) — Prose Fiction – M T Anderson, Feed (20 marks)

Analyse how the central ideas of Feed are explored through the distinctive qualities of the text.

In your response, make detailed reference to the extract below and your prescribed text.

The first thing I felt was no credit.

I tried to touch my credit, but there was nothing there.

It felt like I was in a little room.

My body — I was in a bed, on top of my arm, which was asleep, but I didn’t know where, I couldn’t find the Lunar GPS to tell me.

Someone had left a message in my head, which I found, and then kept finding everywhere I went, which said that there was no transmission signal, that I was currently disconnected from feednet. I tried to chat Link and then Marty, but nothing, there was no transmission signal, I was currently disconnected from feednet, of course, and I was starting to get scared, so I tried to chat my parents, I tried to chat them on Earth, but there was no transmission etc., I was currently etc.

So I opened my eyes.

She and I came wandering there through an empty park,
and we laid our hands on a stone parapet’s fading life. Before us, across the oily, aubergine dark of the harbour, we could make out yachts —

beneath an overcast sky, that was mauve underlit, against a far shore of dark, crumbling bush.
Part of the city, to our left, was fruit shop bright.
After the summer day, a huge, moist hush.

For 2,000 years
The Earth Mother
Nursed her son,
Until
By chance,
A pick and shovel,
Revealed his secret.
The earth opened up
And exposed to the world,
His fear,
His insecurity.

TREVOR: So there was Albert, between two worlds. Name changed. Not a man, not a boy. Following his heart western way, wrong-way marriage. Speaking Aranda, German, bit of English. He's an evangelist, choir, bushman. Growing family, poor, no house, nothing. My, hasn't the world changed?

A Model T Ford arrives.

Then one day into the mission comes this angry mechanical ant. And from its belly climbs this strange little man ... and he walks funny, like a bird.

MISSION MEN gather, aroused, whispering.

MAN: Aiyua untjwarra era pitjika/

MAN: Alte reiher mann ist gekommen/

MAN: Aiyua untjwarra era pitjika/

MAN: Old Heron Man has come.

REX steps from the car, moving like a heron.

Enter PUCK.

PUCK What hempen homespuns have we swaggering here
 So near the cradle of the Fairy Queen?
 What, a play toward? I'll be an auditor,
 An actor too perhaps, if I see cause.

QUINCE Speak, Pyramus! Thisbe, stand forth!

BOTTOM (as Pyramus)
 Thisbe, the flowers of odious savours sweet –

QUINCE Odours – 'odorous'!

BOTTOM (as Pyramus) ... odours savours sweet
 So hath thy breath, my dearest Thisbe dear.
 But hark, a voice! Stay thou but here awhile,
 And by and by I will to thee appear. Exit

PUCK A stranger Pyramus than e'er played here. [Exit]

Question 2 (g) — Nonfiction – Anna Funder, Stasiland (20 marks)

Analyse how the central ideas of Stasiland are explored through the distinctive qualities of the text.

In your response, make detailed reference to the extract below and your prescribed text.

'Just a moment,' he says. 'It is hard for you to understand. Without understanding my childhood, you can't see why anyone would want to join the Stasi.'

This isn't quite true. I have given a lot of thought to why people would want to join. In a society riven into 'us' and 'them', an ambitious young person might well want to be one of the group in the know, one of the unmolested. If there was never going to be an end to your country, and you could never leave, why wouldn't you opt for a peaceful life and a satisfying career? What interests me is the process of dealing with that decision now that it is all over. Can you rework your past, the grit that rubs in you, until it is shiny and smooth as a pearl?

Question 3 (20 marks)

There is something stubborn about taste, something homebound, almost old-fashioned. It's like taste has not quite caught up with our modern world where you Zoom into a city with one click. Taste is something you just can't do at a distance. You almost have to be up close ... And taste, of course, brings us close. So today on the show, we've got two stories about just how far our longing for taste can take us, from the snacks that transport us around the world ... to the dishes that bring us back home.
